About Andre Reznitchenko

Andre Reznitchenko is a lawyer at AKD. He specialises in commercial and corporate law and advises and represents businesses operating at national and international level in the event of disputes about, for example, professional liability, broken off negotiations, acquisitions, earn-outs and guarantee and indemnification claims.

Andre has plenty of experience with commercial disputes and disputes between shareholders, directors and supervisory directors. In addition he acts on behalf of groups of consumers, companies and investors in class action disputes.

His clients include trade associations, independent professionals, directors, supervisory directors, shareholders and (international) companies. His clients are primarily active in the manufacturing and recycling industries and automotive and defence sectors. He represents his clients before various legal bodies, including the Enterprise Section of the Amsterdam Court of Appeal. Andre speaks Dutch, English and Russian.
