About Bas Collard

Bas Collard specialises in construction and real estate law. He advises and assists stakeholders in property development projects and the actual construction of real estate projects. His areas of interest include the development and redevelopment of commercial and other property, the transformation of commercial premises, and real estate transactions. Bas counts property developers and contractors amongst his clients.

Leasing is a particular focus area for Bas. He acts for landlords as well as tenants of any imaginable type of commercial premises and for landlords of housing estates. His clients include investors, property managers, retailers, housing associations and municipalities.

Bas is a frequent litigator with considerable arbitration experience before the Netherlands Arbitration Institute, the Arbitration board for the building industry and various dispute resolution committees in all of the areas of law mentioned. He also acts in civil first-instance and appeal proceedings. Bas regularly publishes articles in law journals and magazines. Clients appreciate Bas for his in-depth knowledge, which he applies in a pragmatic and accessible manner.
